

Analyst Opportunity in Exciting Research Organisation

Trucost's research team is expanding and the company is looking for new members to turn ground breaking research on the environmental impacts of companies into investment relevant research notes for City institutions.

Key Tasks

- Write reports that allow fund managers and analysts to understand the environmental impacts of investments – analyse the environmental performance of companies and identify the most pertinent issues for each company, quantify the financial impacts associated with the environment, understand the environmental regulations that affect the business, conduct peer group analysis.
- Provide information on the environmental performance of companies for use in Client's engagement processes.
- Manage and carry out commissioned research projects for the investment community and companies.
- Research global and sector based environmental resource use and pollution data.
- Research and update financial and environmental information on global listed companies.

Skills Required

The candidate should have 1 to 2 years relevant work experience. They will possess a good undergraduate degree in a relevant discipline and probably have a postgraduate degree in a relevant subject. The candidate will have excellent writing, communication and presentation skills and will be able to analyse and interpret data in a consistent and logical manner. Excellent spreadsheet and word-processing skills would be beneficial.

Salary

Trucost offers a competitive salary commensurate with experience.

The Company

Trucost Plc is an environmental research organisation, which helps companies and investors understand the environmental impacts of business activities. Trucost provides data and analysis on company emissions and natural resource usage. It presents these in financial, as well as quantity terms, providing the basis for an improved dialogue between companies, investors and other stakeholders. Trucost offers expert advice and research to major corporations, both public and private, institutional investors and to Government departments and associated agencies.

Trucost is a small company with friendly staff based in the heart of St James in the West End of London. It is a dynamic and expanding business, with excellent opportunities for personal development for enthusiastic employees.
